WEEK 5

October 11th - October 17th

- Sexual Misconduct Prevention and Response held another Green Dot Bystander Training over Zoom on the 11th. Students who missed the first meeting could learn the skills required to safely and effectively intervene in instances of power-based personal violence.
- Sophomorphosis continued this week. One event Off-Campus Studies hosted was an informational session where students could come learn about off-campus study options.
- Carldems hosted a March To The Polls on the 13th. Students walked to Northfield City Hall and voted early for the November election.
- On the 14th Ethical Inquiry at Carleton held a Zoom discussion where healthcare workers shared their experiences during COVID-19. Students could learn about what it is truly like to work during a pandemic.
- The Undergraduate Student Research and Internship Symposium was held on the 16th. Students presented on their projects in a virtual session hosted by both the Dean of the College Office and the Career Center.
- Family Weekend continued this week with a live tour of the campus and conversations with SHAC about Carleton's COVID-19 practices. These virtual events allowed families of students to learn more about Carleton from the comfort of their own home.
