Carleton Remembers

Memorial Day is a time to honor those in our communities who served in the military. The following slides portray Carleton students and alumni who have died while serving their country.
In Remembrance

Fred K. Allen
1893-1918

Fred Kent Allen of Ada, MN enrolled at Carleton in 1912. He was actively involved in athletics and the glee club and graduated in 1916.

In June of 1917, Fred entered the Quartermaster Corps as a civilian, serving as field auditor at Camp Funston, KS until November. He then sailed on the Tuscania with Co. D, Sixth Battalion, and died on February 5, 1918 when a torpedo sunk the Tuscania.
Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Alton Belanger was an economics major from Duluth, MN. He was involved in student publications and played football, baseball, and hockey.

After graduation, he joined the Army Air Forces and flew sixteen combat missions as a pilot. He was shot down over Gotha, Germany on February 24, 1944. He received the Air Medal with one Oak Leaf Cluster, the Distinguished Flying Cross, and the Purple Heart.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

John Benedict
Class of 1945

John Benedict came to Carleton from Rochester, MN and joined the Army Air Forces, serving as a flight officer and navigator of the Twentieth Air Force. In April, 1945, he was awarded the Air Medal.

Flight Officer Benedict was killed on May 14, 1945 on the island of Guam when his plane crashed as he was leaving the base for his thirteenth mission over Japan.
George E. Black
Class of 1941

George “Ned” Black of Fargo, ND majored in history at Carleton. He was one of 14 students named to the national Collegiate “Who’s Who” and was elected to the Phi Beta Kappa national honor society. A gifted musician, he also won a scholarship for travel to Brazil.

He enlisted in the U.S. Army in 1942, served as a liaison officer in the Intelligence Division, and was killed in action near the Moselle River in France on September 4, 1944.
Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Julius Boyd majored in physics and was an avid athlete, lettering in wrestling and football and also running track and field for Carleton’s varsity squad. After graduating, he joined the U.S. Naval Air Forces.

On March 12, 1945 he piloted a bombing plane on a patrol mission to Borneo. The plane failed to return to its base at Tacloban on the island of Leyte in the Philippines, and Lieutenant Boyd was presumed dead.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Gerald Rodney Brown
Class of 1951

Gerald Brown came to Carleton from Gann Valley, SD and wrestled for the Knights. After attending Carleton two years, he became a pilot with Fighter Squadron aboard the carrier USS Philippine Sea.

Korean War

On June 2, 1952, Ensign Brown was killed in an explosion while on a combat mission. As his aircraft left the deck, it was struck by the slip stream of another aircraft and fell into the sea.
Norman D. Brueggeman
Class of 1943

Norman Brueggeman graduated from Carleton in 1943, majoring in health. He lettered in three sports (football, basketball, and baseball) and also played golf his freshman year.

Lieutenant Brueggeman was killed in action on Iwo Jima on February 19, 1945. He was an officer in the 28th Marines, Fifth Division.
Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

John F. Bundy
Class of 1946

John Bundy, of Flint, MI, managed the varsity basketball team while a student at Carleton. He joined the Army Air Forces and became an officer of the 397th Bombardment Group, serving as co-pilot on a B-26 medium bomber.

Lieutenant Bundy was killed in a plane crash as he was taking off for a mission in Picardy, France on March 11, 1945. He was awarded posthumously the Air Medal with several Oak Leaf Clusters and the Purple Heart.
Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation's servicemen and women.

John Burchmore, Jr. came to Carleton from Evanston, IL. He joined the U.S. Army, serving in the 66th Regiment of the 71st Infantry Division, Third Army.

Private First Class Burchmore died in service at Dillingen, Germany, on July 11, 1945.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Guy Chase, of Evanston, IL, played football his freshman year at Carleton. He became a radar navigator in the Army Air Forces.

Harry Guy Chase
Class of 1945

Lieutenant Chase was killed in a plane explosion on Tinian Island on May 20, 1945. At the time of his death, he was beginning his seventh mission over Japan.

World War II
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Donald A. Cole
Class of 1937

Donald Cole majored in botany and played for Carleton’s baseball team. After graduating, he enrolled in the U.S. Navy and saw active duty in the Atlantic as second in command aboard a landing ship tank (LST) in the invasion of France on D-Day, June 6, 1944.

He was later wounded by shrapnel from a robot bomb in London and never fully recovered from this injury. Lieutenant Cole died on June 9, 1945 in a United States Naval Hospital in Oakland, CA of acute lymphatic leukemia.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Dixon P. Connolly
Class of 1942

Dixon Connolly swam for Carleton during his freshman year. He joined the U.S. Navy and served as a radar officer on the USS "Underhill." Lieutenant Connolly lost his life on July 24, 1945, when his ship was sunk by Japanese torpedoes off the island of Okinawa. He was awarded the Purple Heart posthumously.

World War II
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

World War II

John S. Craig
Class of 1944

John Craig came to Carleton from Chicago, IL and played baseball his freshman year. He joined the Army Air Forces and traveled overseas.

Lieutenant Craig was reported missing and presumed killed in action following an air raid over Ploesti, Romania on May 18, 1944.
Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation's servicemen and women.

Edward F. Crandall
Class of 1942

Edward Crandall came to Carleton in 1938 from Minneapolis, MN. Cadet Crandall was killed on February 18, 1942, in a training plane crash at Parks Air College, East St. Louis, IL.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

William R. Crawhall
Class of 1937

William Crawhall was a native of Minneapolis, MN and attended Carleton for two years. Staff Sergeant Crawhall served as a member of the 175th Field Artillery in the U.S. Army.

He was killed in action on the Algeria-Tunisia front in North Africa on December 7, 1942.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Edward A. Everett
Class of 1943

Edward “Ted” Everett was passionate about the arts at Carleton. With the onset of WWII, he entered an accelerated program to graduate but was unable to attend his commencement ceremonies. He joined the U.S. Army and served in Italy and France.

In a letter to his mother, he wrote: “If I do not come back, take my money and create a scholarship for art students at Carleton who might not be able to buy such material as oil, etc., or otherwise need help. Since I won’t have had my chance to do anything or in any way make my mark in the world I’d like to at least help some others do the thing I wanted to do, or at least finish the education this war prevented me from finishing.”

Everett was killed in action on October 2, 1944. As he requested, his mother created a scholarship that continues to support art majors today.
In Remembrance

Irving Farley
Class of 1945

Irving Farley, originally from Battle Creek, MI, attended Carleton from 1941-42 before joining the U.S. Army. Corporal Farley served with the 80th Division of the Third Army in France and Belgium.

He was killed in action in Belgium on December 26, 1944.

World War II
Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States. The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation's servicemen and women.

George A. Fetter
Class of 1944

George Fetter played baseball and basketball for Carleton during his freshman year. After enlisting in the U.S. Army, he served as a radio operator and interpreter with the Seventh Army in France.

He was killed by a land mine on March 19, 1945 while driving his radio truck to a forward position during an attack on the Siegfried Line. He received the Purple Heart posthumously.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

John Taylor Filpi
Class of 1965

John grew up in Glenview, IL and was a philosophy major at Carleton. He enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps after graduation. Second Lieutenant Filpi was killed in action in Quang Ngai, South Vietnam. Shortly before his death, he’d written home saying he wanted to extend his tour of duty “so he could help the Vietnamese people.”
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Robert W. Foster
Class of 1946

Robert Foster played on Carleton’s varsity basketball team his freshman year. He enlisted in the U.S. Army and was a member of the Combat Engineers of the 43rd Division.

Private Foster was killed in action near Manila on the island of Luzon in the Philippines on April 4, 1945.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Norman Byron Geyer
Class of 1935

Byron Geyer was a chemistry major, basketball player, and lettered in baseball at Carleton. A Chicago, IL native, he enrolled in the U.S. Navy Medical Corps.

Lieutenant Geyer was a medical officer on the USS “Walke.” His ship was sunk on November 15, 1942, in the Fourth Battle of Savo Island in the South Pacific. He was awarded the Purple Heart.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Harlowe Gieseke came to Carleton from St. Paul, MN and later joined the U.S. Army.

Harlowe G. Gieseke
Class of 1931

Lieutenant Gieseke, an officer in the Quartermaster Corps, was killed in an automobile accident in Germany on October 15, 1945.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation's servicemen and women.

John W. Gordon
Class of 1935

John Gordon, who came to Carleton from Winnetka, IL, was a member of the track and field team.

He served first in Italy and later in France and Germany with the 45th Division of the Seventh Army. Gordon was reported missing in action near Strasbourg, France, on January 21, 1945.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Frederick W. Greve III
Class of 1940

Frederick Greve III was a native of West Lafayette, IN. After attending Carleton, he joined the U.S. Naval Air Forces. Ensign Greve was killed on November 18, 1942, over Escambia Bay, an arm of the Gulf of Mexico, as the result of the collision of two training planes.

He was serving at that time as an instructor of advanced Royal Air Force personnel at the United States Naval Air Station at Pensacola, FL.

World War II
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Warren P. Grunert
Class of 1943

Warren Grunert was a Northfield, MN native and majored in geology at Carleton. He also ran track and field and cross country.

He joined the U.S. Army and was a member of the 502nd Paratroop Infantry. Private First Class Grunert was killed by a land mine in Holland on October 22, 1944.

World War II
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Peter J. Handley
Class of 1945

Peter Handley came to Carleton from Chicago, IL and joined the U.S. Army. Private First Class Handley was killed in action in Belgium on January 24, 1945. He was awarded the Purple Heart.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation's servicemen and women.

World War I

Austin F. Hanscom
1893-1918

Austin Fremont Hanscom of Willmar, MN enrolled at Carleton in 1911 and graduated in 1915. He was a four-year football player, captained the tennis team for a year and was a member of the glee club.

While on a reconnaissance mission, his plane was attacked and went down in flames on September 26, 1918.

In 1917, he was commissioned as a second lieutenant in Heavy Artillery Coast Defense and sent to France in January 1918. After more training he was assigned to the First Aero Squadron as an observer.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Harold M. Hansen
Class of 1938

Harold Hansen came to Carleton from Eau Claire, WI and later joined the Army Air Forces. He was a member of the 883rd Bombardment Group of the Twenty-first Bomber Command based on the island of Saipan. Major Hansen was reported missing following a night mission over Japan on November 29, 1944. He was awarded the Purple Heart and the Presidential Citation.
Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Porter Hoidale attended Carleton but received his B.A. from the University of Minnesota. He joined the United States Marine Corps and then transferred to the U.S. Navy Medical Corps and traveled to the South Pacific as a flight surgeon.

While serving as chief medical officer at the Naval Air base at Klamath Falls, OR, Lieutenant Commander Hoidale suffered from a fall and died in service on January 23, 1944.
Willard J. Humphreys
Class of 1947

Willard John Humphreys was a Kansas City, MO native who attended Carleton before joining the U.S. Marine Corps.

Private Humphreys, a member of the Ninth Regiment of the Third Marine Division, died on March 6, 1945, from wounds received two days earlier in the battle for Iwo Jima.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation's servicemen and women.

Leonard C. Isenberg
Class of 1941

Leonard Isenberg, a native of Pierre, SD, attended Carleton for one year before enlisting in the U.S. Army. Private Isenberg was killed at Sansapor, Dutch New Guinea, on August 12, 1944. He was a member of the 80th Field Artillery Battalion of the Sixth Division.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Robert P. Johnson
Class of 1944

Robert Johnson came to Carleton from Minneapolis, MN and later joined the U.S. Marine Corps.

Private Johnson died on May 7, 1945 of wounds received during the conquest of Okinawa. He was a member of a reconnaissance patrol of the Second Battalion, Seventh Marines, and was fatally wounded while engaged in clearing out a cave held by the enemy.

World War II
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States. The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Robert M. Kennedy
Class of 1933

Robert Kennedy was from Elgin, IL and attended but did not graduate from Carleton. He joined the U.S. Navy Medical Corps and served as a medical officer on the USS “Warrington.” During a hurricane in the Atlantic Ocean, his ship sank on September 13, 1944, and he was lost at sea.

World War II
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Leonard E. Kinnan
Class of 1933

Leonard Kinnan came to Carleton from Muscatine, IA and lettered in track and field. On January 10, 1944, Lieutenant Commander Kinnan was killed in an airplane crash in the New Hebrides.

It was his first flight as squadron commander. He was awarded the Navy Cross, the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Distinguished Service Cross, the Purple Heart, and the Order of the British Empire.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Thomas S. Knox
1888-1918

Thomas Start Knox of Jackson, MN came to Carleton in 1907. He was active in athletics, was a member of the glee club, and was popular among his classmates. After two years at Carleton he transferred to Dartmouth, and subsequently looked after his father’s farm interests. He later went to work at the Brown National Bank of Jackson.

In February 1918 he enlisted as a private in Co. E of the 3rd Provisional Regiment of the Ordnance Department and was sent to Camp Hancock, GA for training. There he fell ill and died of scarlet fever and pneumonia on November 19, 1918.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

John Lambooy
Class of 1965

John Patrick Lambooy, an infantry combat medic in the American Division, was killed in action by a rocket attack Southeast of Da Nang on September 19, 1969. Drafted into the service after his first semester at Yale Graduate School, where he was working towards his Ph.D. on University Fellowship, John was in Vietnam less than two months.

In one of his last letters to his father, John wrote, “I’m afraid, I’m afraid of being maimed, afraid of being killed, but most of all I’m afraid that I won’t be able to do all that is humanly possible when someone needs me in my role as medic. At least I’m proud of that role; in all of this affair at least in this capacity I am doing good.”

Vietnam War

A sociology major at Carleton, John graduated cum laude. In honor of John’s passion for archaeology, his family established a memorial library collection for materials related to the history and archaeology of Latin America.
Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation's servicemen and women.

Henry B. Landaal
Class of 1939

Henry Landaal was a chemistry major at Carleton and letter winner on the men's golf team. After graduating, he joined the U.S. Navy Medical Corps.

Lieutenant Landaal lost his life on June 9, 1944 while engaged in the invasion of Normandy. The landing ship tank (LST) on which he was a medical officer was torpedoed.

He was awarded the Purple Heart posthumously.
Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Clarence Walter Larson

1898-1918

Clarence Larson of Herman, MN came to Carleton in January 1917 and was a star football player as well as a member of the band.

In May 1917 he enlisted and was assigned to Fort Bliss, TX, with Co. C, 2nd Engineers. He arrived in France in September of 1917, and was killed in action on the second day of the Soissons offensive, July 19, 1918.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Sydney R. Larson
Class of 1937

Larson, an economics major, was a native of Winona, MN. He was regarded as the highest ranking athlete in his class. As a fullback on the Carleton football squad, Larson was a member of teams that put together back-to-back 6-1 records in 1935 and 1936, the latter squad winning the Midwest Conference title. Larson also helped lead the Carls to a Midwest Conference championship in basketball.

He was 27 years old when he was killed in an airplane crash on a training exercise at Corpus Christi Naval Air Station on August 24, 1942.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Charles C. Liscomb
Class of 1941

Charles Liscomb played football and ice hockey during his freshman year at Carleton. He later became an aviation cadet in the Army Air Forces.

On October 28, 1942, just a few days before he would have received his commission as a pilot, Cadet Liscomb lost his life in an accident during a training flight at Lubbock Field, TX. The War Department awarded his pilots' wings posthumously.

World War II
Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Frank J. Manz, Jr.
Class of 1941

At Carleton, Frank Manz ran track and field and lettered on the cross-country team. He later joined the Army Air Forces.

Lieutenant Manz was killed in an airplane crash at Lockbourne Army Air Base in Columbus, OH on November 27, 1943. At the time of his death, he had just entered training to become a pilot of a B-24 Liberator bomber.
Harry T. Martin
Class of 1938

A history major and member of the Carleton in China Committee, Harry Martin was also an exceptional athlete, lettering in football, baseball, basketball and ice hockey.

After graduating, he joined the Army Air Forces. Lieutenant Martin, pilot of a B-26 Martin Marauder bombing plane, was killed in action over Tunis, Tunisia on February 24, 1943.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Richard B. Mays
Class of 1938

Richard Mays was a native of Quincy, IL. He joined the Army Air Forces, serving as an operations officer and flight leader. Captain Mays lost his life on December 22, 1943, when the Eighth Air Force bombing plane of which he was pilot was shot down by enemy anti-aircraft fire and fighter planes of Holland.

The Distinguished Flying Cross and the Purple Heart were awarded him posthumously. He was also the recipient of the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters.

World War II
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Philip A. McAdam
Class of 1941

Philip McAdam attended Carleton as a geology major under Dr. Gould, the future president of the College. Despite a challenging health history and anemia, he was drafted into the U.S. Army. Private McAdam was killed on the island of Luzon in the Philippines on February 12, 1945 while serving with the 152nd Infantry Regiment of the 38th Division, Regular Army. He was awarded the Purple Heart.

In 1959, his parents created a scholarship at Carleton in his memory, which continues today to support students with financial need.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Fergus Mead, Jr.
Class of 1945

Fergus Mead came to Carleton from Kenilworth, IL. As a fighter pilot with the Fifth Air Force, Lieutenant Mead flew eighty-four combat missions, won six combat stars, and was awarded the Air medal with Oak Leaf Clusters.

He was killed on May 31, 1945, when his plane was hit by enemy ground fire over the island of Formosa.

World War II
Joseph Chalder Monson
Class of 1939

Joseph Monson came to Carleton from River Forest, IL and played football and basketball for the Knights.

After graduation, he was trained at the Military Government School at Fort Custer, MI, and was sent overseas as a member of the Second European Civil Affairs Regiment.

World War II

Lieutenant Monson was killed in a vehicle accident near Simmern, Germany, on June 11, 1945.

In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Jared Morrow
Class of 1945

Jared Morrow came to Carleton from Fargo, ND and played on the football team prior to transferring to West Point Military Academy at the end of his first year.

Jared graduated West Point in 1945 and served overseas in WWII as well in the Korean War. He was killed in combat in Korea on September 1, 1950.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Quintus B. Nelson
Class of 1940

Quintus Nelson lettered on Carleton’s baseball and basketball teams during his student years.

After graduating, he joined the Marine Corps and served with a United States Marine Fighter Squadron in the South Pacific. Major Nelson was killed on April 16, 1945 when his plane crashed after being hit by enemy anti-aircraft fire over the Palau Islands.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States. The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

World War II

Stanley H. Palcich
Class of 1936

Stanley Palcich majored in chemistry and lettered on Carleton’s basketball team.

After graduating, he joined the U.S. Navy. Lieutenant Palcich was reported missing on April 16, 1943, when his ship the USS “Edward B. Dudley” was sunk by an enemy submarine in the North Atlantic. He was the commanding officer of a gun crew engaged in convoy duty at the time of his death. He was awarded the Purple Heart posthumously.
Edwin C. Phinney
1881-1918

Edwin Phinney of Stillwater, MN enrolled at Carleton in 1894.

After graduating, he worked for the Northwestern National Bank of Minneapolis from 1897 to 1917 and came to be among the most prominent of the city’s younger bankers.

Phinney was also active at his church and in the Young Men’s Christian Association (YMCA). In January 1918, he traveled to France to support the YMCA war service.

While in service, he died of pneumonia on February 25, 1918.
Lee C. Prentice
1887-1918

Lee Charles Prentice of Fairmont, MN enrolled at Carleton in 1907. He graduated in 1911, working as a teacher and organizing the state’s first high school band. In 1914 he returned to Fairmont to work as a journalist.

In 1917 Lee received the commission of second lieutenant at the First Officers’ Training Camp at Fort Snelling. After training in Texas he was sent for further preparations in England, then joined the 104th Squadron of the Royal Air Force. On his second bombing raid on the French-German border on August 1, 1918, he was shot down three miles behind German lines. As the first soldier from Fairmont to die in the war, the town’s Legion Hall is named in his memory.
In Remembrance

Thad D. Reed
Class of 1943

Thad Reed came to Carleton from Chicago, IL and later joined the U.S. Marine Air Corps.

Lieutenant Reed completed ten combat missions before losing his life on November 23, 1943 en route from Australia to his combat base. His Navy transport plane was lost at sea in the South Pacific.

World War II
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation's servicemen and women.

World War II

John W. Schwer
Class of 1933

John Schwer came to Carleton from Corpus Christi, TX. After graduating he taught religion and served as a priest at Texas State College for Women before becoming assistant rector at his hometown church in 1942.

He joined the Chaplain Corps in 1943. On August 5, 1944, Captain Schwer was killed while serving with the Sixth Armored Division, Third Army, near Brest, France. A certificate of merit and Chaplain's Medal were presented to his widow in 1946.
Hiram A. Scriver
Class of 1943

Hiram Scriver was the grandson of Carleton trustee and member of the class of 1881 Hiram A. Scriver.

While in service at Keesler Field in Biloxi, MS, Private Scriver died of meningitis on December 28, 1943. A gold star on the World War II service flag at the Cannon Falls UCC Church is dedicated to Hiram.
Frank Shigemura, a Japanese-American student born in Seattle, WA, came to Carleton in 1943 as part of a program created to assist students residing in internment camps during World War II. He attended Carleton for just one year before enlisting in the war. Private first class Shigemura became a member of the 442nd Regiment, a special combat team that fought with uncommon distinction in Italy, southern France, and Germany and participated in the liberation of the famous “Lost Battalion.”

Frank was killed in action in France on October 20, 1944. After his death, Shigemura’s parents established a scholarship from their modest salary to honor his memory and to support educational opportunities for others at Carleton.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

World War II

Francis Wayne Sparks
Class of 1937

Wayne Sparks entered Carleton from Waverly, IA, where he had won letters in basketball and football. Basketball was his sport at Carleton, and he set scoring records that endured for years. In his senior year, he was awarded the Matteson Trophy for outstanding basketball skills, high scholarship, sportsmanship and character.

After graduating as a history major, Lieutenant Sparks joined the Army Air Forces. He was killed in a plane crash on September 13, 1942 while training to be a bomber pilot.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States. The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Cleon S. Stitzel
Class of 1941

Cleon Stitzel was an economics major and graduated from Carleton in 1941. He was an avid athlete, lettering in football and baseball and also received an award for basketball.

World War II

Stitzel died on June 24, 1945 in a hospital in Atlanta, Georgia, following a cerebral hemorrhage.

Lieutenant Stitzel served in the Aleutian campaigns early in the war and served in command of the Naval Air Base on Ascension Island in the Atlantic. He was a recipient of the Distinguished Flying Cross.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Matthias A. Thoeny
Class of 1933

Matt Thoeny was economics major, winner of seven varsity letters at Carleton, and remembered as an outstanding guard for the "Victory Five" basketball team. He was also an excellent hitter and infielder on the baseball team and a star quarterback in football until injuries sidelined him during his junior year.

Following graduation, Thoeny spent two years as an assistant coach for Carleton before enlisting in the U.S. Army. A recipient of the Purple Heart, he died of wounds received in battle in France on November 8, 1944.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

Frank G. Uerling
Class of 1944

Frank Uerling came to Carleton from Hastings, NE, and later joined the Army Air Forces. Lieutenant Uerling lost his life on a bombing flight over Italy on March 30, 1945.

A member of the 310th Bombardment Group in the Mediterranean theatre, he had completed 62 missions and had earned two battle stars and the Air Medal with oak Leaf Clusters.

World War II
Peter C. Van Nostrand
Class of 1931

Peter Van Nostrand came to Carleton from Merrill, WI. After graduating, he joined the U.S. Army. While in service, Corporal Van Nostrand fell ill and died on November 20, 1941 following an emergency operation.

At the time of his fatal illness, he was serving as Personnel Director at the Fort Sheridan Induction Center in Fort Sheridan, IL.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation's servicemen and women.

William S. Van Nostrand
Class of 1932

William Van Nostrand attended Carleton for two years and went on to graduate from the United States Military Academy at West Point. He was taken prisoner by the Japanese on May 8, 1942, on the island of Mindanao in the Philippines.

The prison ship on which he was being transported was bombed on January 9, 1945, killing Van Nostrand. He was awarded the Silver Star for heroism and was recommended for the Congressional Medal of Honor.
William W. Watson
Class of 1933

William Watson was a varsity member and letter-winner on Carleton’s tennis team. After graduating, he went on to serve in the U.S. Navy. He was killed on June 16, 1944 in an airplane crash somewhere between Calcutta, India and Chungking, China.

At the time his plane went down, he had been returning from Washington, D.C. where he had accepted a new post in Chungking as Assistant Naval Attaché for the American Embassy.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation's servicemen and women.

Gordon Welshons Jr. was the son of Gordon Welshons, Carleton class of 1915. Gordon Jr. attended Carleton for one year and was a member of the C-Club.

Gordon C. Welshons, Jr.
Class of 1950

He joined the Navy and while in service, died in an automobile accident on December 19, 1948.
In Remembrance

Carleton College honors the men and women who have perished while in military service to the United States.

The freedoms enjoyed by Carleton students today have been ensured by the sacrifice of our nation’s servicemen and women.

World War II

Elmer J. Wood
Class of 1941

Elmer Wood came to Carleton from Evanston, IL. He was an economics major, lettered in football, and was a varsity member of the track and field team. After graduating, he joined the United States Marine Air Corps.

Captain Wood was killed on October 30, 1943 in an airplane crash near Greensburg, PA. At the time of his death, he was an instructor in aviation at the United States Naval Air Base at Peru, IN.
Acknowledgments

Biographical material was gathered from Khaki and Blue, a booklet of WWI students and alumni, and They Shall Not Grow Old, a WWII memorial booklet published in 1946.

Special thanks also to Carleton Archivist Eric Hillemann, Stewardship Office Intern Kai Knutson ‘11, and student worker Gilah Benson-Tilsen ‘13 for their additional research.

Music:

• “Air” from Orchestral Suite No. 3 in D, BWV 1068 by Johann Sebastian Bach, performed by the Carleton Orchestra and directed by Dr. Hector Valdivia on March 4, 2011