Hello Friend,

Congratulations on your acceptance to Carleton! I am delighted to introduce you to the College's Minor in European Studies. European Studies is one of the interdisciplinary Area Studies Programs at Carleton. This means that in our courses you will meet students from a variety of majors on campus who share a passion for exploring issues relating to Europe.

In European Studies you will be able to:

- Take individual courses that interest you and fulfill College distribution requirements
- Complete a minor in European Studies by taking a number of core courses dealing with Europe in a global context.

The European Studies minor provides an interdisciplinary environment that allows students to explore Europe's past and present, to integrate their off-campus study experience with campus coursework and to get to know other students at public talks, discussions, and social events.

Starting with the different offerings of the European Studies Gateway – “The Power of Place” and many other offerings in European history, Political Science and related disciplines, the program also offers advanced courses such as EUST 249 – “The European Union from Constitution to Crisis” as well as an annual Senior Colloquium for those enrolled in the minor. Of course, European Studies is also represented among Carleton's study abroad programs in Rome and Prague.

I would be happy to speak with you about European Studies at Carleton at the earliest opportunity. Please feel free to email me a ppetzs@carleton.edu.

Sincerely,

Paul Petzschmann
Senior Lecturer European Studies
