

Learning Outcomes for French & Francophone Studies

French Minor / French & Francophone Studies Minor

By the time they graduate, our students should be able to:

1. Demonstrate competence in all four skill areas of French: listening, speaking, reading, and writing.
2. Use sociohistorical contexts to analyze cultural productions.
3. Demonstrate skills in research techniques and information resources.
4. Develop intercultural competence that allows them to consider French and Francophone cultures as well as their own culture in a broader context.
5. Ask productive questions and solve problems concerning particular texts and other objects of study, both within the discipline and beyond.
