

Here's your news for January from on and off campus.

What better way to celebrate winter than in the company of other Carls? The photos above show students, staff, and alumni at some of the season's many Winter Gatherings (and see below for more to come). Here on campus, it's the first day of a busy new term, and folks are already planning for the rest of the year as well—fifteen professors have received faculty development grants, and five current Carls will represent the USA at this summer's World U-24 Ultimate Championships. And speaking of gatherings, it's no secret that American druidry originated at Carleton in the '60s. Feel free to share your own Carleton connections with us, and read on for more updates from campus and beyond.

News from campus

Lofgren fellow named

Congratulations to Devin Holewinski '13, this year's recipient of the Lofgren Alumni Business Fellowship. Established in 1984 by Charles Lofgren Sr. '27, the award supports alumni with established commitments to a career in business through educational opportunities.

New art at the Perlman

Opening on January 13, Only sounds that travel through us, by Basel Abbas and Ruanne Abou-Rahme, is this winter's exhibition at the Perlman Teaching Museum. It features three bodies of work that explore diverse traditions of communal song and dance across the Arab world. With moving-image installations, sound, performance, and poetry, the duo's artwork centers themes of collectivity, resilience, and memory. For more information, visit the Perlman Teaching Museum website.

Upcoming events

In person: January 9-10
Convocation and lecture/demonstration with Kyle Abraham

A 2013 MacArthur "Genius" Fellow, choreographer and dancer Kyle Abraham is this year's Ward Lucas Lecturer in the Arts at Carleton. His work has been performed by major dance companies, including the New York City Ballet, London's Royal Ballet, and the American Ballet Theater. The New York Times has raved at his skill in "mingling the ballet vernacular with other forms, from hip-hop to West African movement" and in "finding the person within the dancer and the bodies within a body."
